Chairman Aldrich, of the Committee on Finance, Mr. La Follette said, explained the failure of the committee to take under consideration any fundamental reforms at this time on the ground that there was no "consensus of opinion" on the subject. Continuing, Mr. La Foliette declared that the Aldrich bill was fundamentally vicious and that it would not meet any legitimate business demands. He called attention to the railroad bond feature of the bill and said that its withdrawal was an admission that it was indefensible and it was provoking a measure of discussion of the bill which threatend to defeat the other features of the bill. He declares that the whole bill, railroad bonds and all, was of a piece. He demanded legislation to keep reserves where they would be available to depositors in time of need, to prevent speculative investments and loans by banks, to require that the men in charge of national banks should be bankers and not speculators whose principal interests were in the control and promotion of trusts, to prevent bank officers and directors from borrowing from and manipulating the funds of banks under their control, and to make more certain the punishment of bank officers and directors for violations of the laws. He said it was manifest that no committee of the Senate would give the important subject of fundamental reforms of our banking and currency system the sort of consideration which the subject demanded. He said we should have a commission of experts and men representing all legitimate interests to investigate thoroughly and report to Congress.

Mr. La Follette, then concluded his speech with a powerful appeal to the "progressive men" in the Senate to stand together and beat the bill. Shortly after his graduation he entered the diplomatic service of the United States, and was sent to Tokyo as secretary to the American legation, under Minister Bingham. After five years' service in that capacit; Mr. Stevens was recognized by Japan as a man keenly alive to transac-

A Japanese named Megata, a graduate of Harvard Uni-versity, was selected as financial ad-viser, and Mr. Stevens was recom-mended by Japan and accepted by Korea as diplomatic adviser. Three and a half years ago Mr. Stev-ens left Washington and proceeded to Korea.

During his stay in Korea it is said he has conserved the best interests of the Koreans.

Recently Mr. Stevens took a leave of absence to come to Washington. Wheth-er his mission in the National Capital pertained to business with Baron Taka-hira or was one of a social nature could not be learned.

Praises Japan's Course.

Last Friday when Mr. Stevens arrived in San Francisco on the Nippon Maru he praised the policies of Japan in Korea and accentuated the benefits growing from Japanese occupation since the signing of the treaty at Ports-mouth. An interview quoting to this effect was printed in San Francisco and incensed what is believed to be the less enlightened element of the Korean population there. Friday evening Mr. Stev ens was visited at his hotel by several impulsive Koreans, who demanded to know if he had been correctly quoted. Firmly standing sponsor for the in-Lunder a treaty signed February 23. 1904, it was agreed that a subject of the Emperor of Japan should be appointed financial adviser in Korea, and a foreigner, to be selected by Japan should be given the position of diplomatic career of his friend and know that Mr. Stevens at all times conserved the best interests of those whom he represented.

Diet Cosmetics Good Food Clears the Complexion.

The best "Beauty Doctor" in the world is a good, pure food. Rich, greasy, or poorly cooked foods will ruin the finest complexion a woman was ever blessed with, and all the cosmetics and treatments she may give it will only cover up, not remove the blemishes. The treatment must come from the inside, for the pores of the skin must have the proper food to be healthy.

A lady living in the West of London, England, writes as follows:

"Grape-Nuts Food has done me a world of good. Some years ago I fell a victim to a serious illness, which did great damage to my constitution. I gave up hope of ever recovering my natural good health until last winter. when tempted to try Grape-Nuts more from a liking for that kind of food than from any hope of it doing me good.

"I found to my surprise after trial of a week or two that I was getting quite plump, my voice much stronger, and my complexion was becoming beautifully clear. In fact, since eating Crape Nuts my friends say I look 10 years younger, and I believe them, as my glass tells me it is true." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Minority Leader Williams created a sensation in the House today by announcing that he would conduct a filibuster unlets the Republicans should give assurances that they would bring in for consideration of the House certain legislation, consisting principally of measures which the President has recommended for passage.

Among those were an employers' liability bill, a bill taking the duty off wood pulp and print paper, a measure providing for publicity of campaign contributions, and a bill to limit the right to grant injunctions in labor disputes. Williams said he was determined that this should no longer be a "lle-easy and wait on the majority" Congress.

News received from the bedside of Sentaor Boise Penrose of Pennsylvanis is far from reassuring, and his friends in the Senate are very anxious over his condition.

The erysipelas which has attacked the Senator's face, has proved to be of a very malignant character. Senator Tillman's condition is said to-day to show signs of improvement.
